IN A FEW WORDS

Dear HVTC,

If you'd like to become a Master of anything; face NEW fears. If you'd like to experience higher levels of joy, take NEW actions. If you'd like to reach your highest level of athleticism, do NEW workouts. Become a NEW you; become a NEW triathlete. See ya out there!

Sincerely,
Mark H. Wilson

HVTC Featured Athlete: Mike Bakker*

By Mark H. Wilson

Triathlon has so many interesting characters participating in the multi-disciplined event that discovering each individual's story is simply fascinating! Lining-up for a race start can be a jarring experience to say the least, and listening to folks discuss their personal and professional lives can be just as riveting...as the gun fires. Michael Bakker is our Featured Athlete of the Month who's loaded with stories and a quick wit to boot. You can often find him (a.k.a. Murph) at a popular triathlon forum slowtwitch.com created by the venerable Dan Empfield; Mike's always teasing and cajoling other forum members regarding race courses, times, etc. as if in a virtual barroom debate. As an athlete, he's the real deal and qualified for the "big show" in Kona by ripping-off a 10:20 at Ironman Lake Placid last July. Nice stuff! So what's goin' on in his world? Let's find out.

Mike was born in Valhalla, New York during the "Paleolithic Era." He attended Valhalla High School and went on to Syracuse University. His major was drinking with a minor in finance. Once upon a time, fraternities were "in" and Mike was a "Mighty Sig Ep Trooper." Think "Revenge of the Nerds." No worries, though, he graduated and now lives in Garrison, New York with his wife Cathy, daughter Emma and dog Murphy. He must have done some studying (unless he's one of those sleep-through-class-get-an-A-types) because he's the Financial Advisor/Vice President at Wachovia Securities. Nice! A former skier, Mike now enjoys rock climbing, ice climbing, hiking, paddling, mountain biking, adventure racing and, of course, beer guzzlin'. And just for the record, Mike insists that pizza, ice cream and beer are ALL good for you due to the high content of carbohydrate, protein and moderate fat; more power to ya!

When Mike was a kid he used to jump his bike like he was Evel Knevel. His athleticism showed promise and it led him to competitive running in high school; 800 meters in track and also cross-country. He remarks that the coolest thing about being a successful triathlete is that he doesn't have to recall the "good ol' days" as a youngster; it's happening right now! No re-living "the glory days" for Mike; his entry into triathlon was via adventure racing during the 90's. A teammate convinced him to do a triathlon because he had already established himself as a good mountain biker and his running was adequate, at the time. His Achilles heel? "But I can't swim!" he moaned. His buddy encouraged him to purchase a wetsuit (thank goodness for wetsuit companies!), and Mike completed the Hudson Valley Triathlon in July 2002 and finished in the top third of the field. Not bad for the first time out!!

Despite the fact that some of Mike's co-workers didn't even know he was a triathlete until AFTER he finished Lake Placid and qualified for Kona, the company quickly sent a video crew to one of the HVTC Summer Tri-Series races to film/interview him. Since becoming a tri-celebrity, his love and enjoyment of the sport has grown tremendously! Nah, truly he finds triathlon to be interesting and challenging; "you can improve yourself in so many ways, and set goals and achieve them." Mike has come to know so many incredible athletes through the sport and subsequent internet forums like Slowtwitch. When asked if he thinks about triathlon more than his job, his response is..."Doesn't everybody?!" 'Nuff said.

The second year he entered the Hudson Valley Triathlon, the water level was so low that most of the field was able to walk most of the swim leg! Being an honest gentleman, Mike felt obliged to take a few strokes on the return "with the current." Uh-huh! Consequently, he had a fantastic "swim" split. A word to the wise, running the swim exhausts the legs; Michael's legs were spent for the bike and run. Back to the drawing board!

The swim has been such a knuckle-ball for Mike that he feels like a "shipwreck survivor" when exiting the water! He's really at home on the bike and best likens his experience to that of a "fighter pilot" and then he proclaims his running as "a very pale Kenyan." The speed is there, but he may have a bit too much muscle for that one! He always recommends the sport to others, and in his own words triathlon has the highest "cool people to A-hole ratio" out of any sport he's ever done. Guess we'll just keep this one among us, huh?!

Since those first couple of tri's, Mike has been busy racing with some very impressive results; the "ultimate" HVTC Summer Tri-Series, Timberman, American Zofingen, Hudson Valley Triathlon, IM Lake Placid, Westchester Triathlon, Harriman Half IM and Kona. Recent highlights include qualifying for Kona at his first-ever Ironman and finishing the Ironman World Championship in daylight. He also placed 4th Overall at the unbelievably rugged American Zofingen as well as 1st M40-44 Harriman Half Ironman. Besides being a good father for his daughter Emma, his future triathlon plans involve:

top-10 at Harriman Half IM, top-10 at Tupper Lake Half IM, and an age-group award at the Timberman Half IM. Mike would also like to do well in the latest of John McGovern's exciting duathlons; Devil's Kitchen Du, break 8 hours at A-Z, and maybe even subject his inner-duathlete to a swim-challenged thrash-fest of fun at the famous SOS. Only time will tell!

Mike has a special "thank you" for HVTC. "I'm pleased and honored to be a part of HVTC, which has to be the best Tri club in the universe! If I can ever learn to swim, maybe I can give the fast guys a run for their $ someday. Thanks again to all for the overwhelming support when I was asking about borrowing a bike case for the Kona trip. I was humbled by your collective generosity." Thanks, Mike!

*This article was first printed in February 2007; Mike has since won the AZ Middle & Long Course events; and, has become one of the "fast guys" he was referring to beating!
